PRESS RELEASE

NCONNECT appointed to G-Cloud 5 for cloud telephony
Accredited partners set to benefit as NCONNECT's highly scalable services become available via UK government procurement portal

London, 8th July 2014 - NCONNECT, the specialist cloud telephony provider, has been approved by HM Government as a supplier under the auspices of its G-Cloud 5 procurement initiative, with its award winning solutions now available to UK public sector organisations through the government's CloudStore portal. This endorsement of NCONNECT's public sector credentials is a boost for accredited partners' sales objectives, which are placed to benefit from additional service demand created.

"Our proven cloud expertise is especially pertinent to public sector organisations as they embrace more efficient and flexible ways of accessing the best possible services; paying only for what they use. This news brings yet more benefits to being an NCONNECT accredited partner," said Rami Houbby, UK Managing Director at NCONNECT. "With the NCONNECT Cloud Telephone System now available in the G-Cloud 5 framework, public sector organisations and their users can break free from expensive and rigid approaches to telephony service, save valuable funds and accelerate the benefits of cloud adoption. Each time they do, a NCONNECT partner will be involved."

G-Cloud is a UK Government initiative to encourage the adoption of cloud services across the whole of the public sector, simplifying how it buys pay-as-you-go services that can be easily scaled up and down based on changing demands. The Programme is not just about IT, it's about changing perceptions and encouraging a "Cloud First" approach, providing the right tools to help these organisations become more flexible, agile and responsive to changing needs. The G-Cloud procurement framework is used by central and local government, as well as health, education, devolved administrations, emergency services, defence and not-for-profit organisations.
